A. B. HERALD DEAD AT SON'S HOME

Born in Germany Mr. Herald Fought in Revolution of 1848, Escaping Afterward to America.

A. B. Herald, aged 86 years, died at 12 o'clock Thursday night at the home of his son E. D. Herald, 1000 Edgehill Road. He had been in failing health for some time and death was not unexpected. A more extended obituary will appear later. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Mr. Herald was born in Germany and it was as a young man of eighteen years that he enlisted in the revolutionary movement of 1848 when the German people, influenced by the republican ideas spread by the French revolution of 1830, rose in strong force and opposed a government which, unrestricted by written constitutions, was growing more and more oppressive. In some of the German states the year 1848 marked the granting of the first constitutions. Mr. Herald fought as a revolutionist in the streets of Berlin and could well recall how cannon were placed in position and how many of his comrades met death when the order came to fire upon the insurrectionary force. Thru the secret kindness of a German official, Mr. Herald was enabled to make his way, unmolested, to America.

Herald.

Funeral services for A. B. Herald were held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of E. D. Herald, 1000 Edge Hill road in charge of the Rev. F. B. Madden, pastor of Grace M. E. church. Mrs. James Mahon gave two solo selections to piano accompaniment by Miss Geraldine Sieber. The flowers were cared for by Mrs. W. T. Clarkson, Mrs. T. A. Ebrey, Mrs. G. A. Sieber and Miss Marion Fairbank.

Burial was made in Diamond Grove Cemetery. The bearers were Capt. W. A. Kirby, J. J. Reeve, E. A. Hearn, J. I. Graham, M. E. Gilbert and W. T. Clarkson

Mr. Herald was born in Saxony, Germany, May 16, 1830, and came to this country as a young man and soon after the outbreak of the Civil War enlisted in Co. C of the 101st Illinois Infantry. Surviving Mr. Herald are the widow and five children, Fred C. Herald of Peoria, Edward D. Herald, Mrs. Agnes Hart and Charles F. Herald, Jacksonville, and W. H. Herald.
