TODD, WILEY

OBITUARY.

Wiley Todd, son of Martin Todd, was born near Lynnville, Ill., June 22, 1838. He was one of quite a large family of children of which still surviving are Newton C. Todd of Kansas City, Mo.; James M. Todd of Belton, Mo.; Geo. M. Todd, of Fladada, Tex.; Louiza Anderson of St. Louis; and Anna Baltz of Cleveland, Mo.

Mr. Todd lived the greater part of his life in Waverly and vicinity. He lived the past few months at Quincy at which place he died May 25, 1921, at the age of 82 years, 11 months and 3 days.

Mr. Todd served his country during the period of the Civil War, and was considered a faithful soldier.

He was united in marriage to Lydia Jane Hood in 1867, she preceding him in death a little over a year ago. There were born to this union three sons, Martin I., William H. and Franklin B., the two eldest surviving to mourn the death of their father, as also do other relatives, the brothers, sister, nephews and nieces, besides his many friends in the community in which he lived.

Mr. Todd was a member of the M. E. church.

The deceased was a victim of the explosion about fifty years ago that wrecked the Root saw mill. A heavy log fell on his leg and crushed it so that amputation was necessary.

The remains were brought to Waverly, and funeral services held at East cemetery Saturday morning in charge of Rev. J. E. Garrett, pastor of the M.E. Church South.
